Take me out to the ball game; take me out with the crowd.
Buy me some peanuts and Cracker Jack, I don't care if I never get back,
Let me root, root, root for the home team, if they don't win it's a shame.
For its one, two, three strikes, you're out, at the old ball game.

We had beautiful weather, cold beer and good company. We also had plenty of one, two & three strikes on Wednesday. Seemed like the Tigers needed a drone to get the ball out of the infield. About the end of the 8th inning the stadium started emptying out faster than the restroom in a Mexican restaurant with a backed up toilet. The only one that stayed was Jerry, hope springs eternal.

Thanks to Frank for putting on a great cook-out and organizing everything perfectly. Dogs, beer and parking places 50 feet from the stadium, what more could you ask for (well maybe a win). There were a large number of guests at the cook-out and game and we need to try and get some of them to join the Club.

I missed writing the newsletter from the week before the game (lazy), so here is a short synopsis of that meeting:

Our own Larry Jackson was our guest speaker on his favorite subject, military conflict. Larry brought in war souvenirs (not his) all the way from the Civil War to World War II. Seems the favorite things are the items from the lousing side; Confederate Army, American Indians, Germans and especially the Nazis. So if you want your grandchildren to make a killing on your old military items, try to be on the lousing side. (We did a damn good job of that in Vet Nam). Larry also suggested we purchase a Civil War battlefield that's up for sale (I didn't know they sold those things) but couldn't get anyone to second his motion.

Nothing sucks more than that moment during an argument when you realize you're wrong.
